BACKGROUND:

In June, 2022, Governor Hochul signed into law the New York City Public Housing Preservation Trust. The legislation establishes the Trust, a New York State public entity that has the authority to issue bonds. Additionally, the legislation authorizes NYCHA to transfer up to 25,000 units of its public housing apartments to the Trust. The legislation requires that prior to any transfer to the Trust, residents at a particular development must vote on whether or not they want their homes to be transferred to the Trust.

A transfer by NYCHA to the Trust enables NYCHA to convert funding for the development from Section 9 public housing to the Section 8 program. This change in funding source enables NYCHA to leverage funds to address much needed outstanding capital repairs at Hylan Houses. Key features of the Preservation Trust legislation include: the Trust is a public entity; residents vote on whether to convert to the Trust; a property continues to be managed and maintained by a NYCHA, unionized workforce.

Since 2017, NYCHA has used another program, known as Permanent Affordability Commitment Together (PACT) to address repair needs at its public housing developments.

Under PACT, NYCHA also converts funding to the Section 8 Program. Typically, conversions under the PACT program involve NYCHA entering into long-term ground leases with a private development partner and private property management team. Residents of developments slated to convert under PACT are currently not given a choice to vote on the conversion.

Under both the Trust and PACT, residents maintain many critical rights and protections under the public housing program. These include: Rents capped at 30% of income; the right to a renewal lease; the right to return to an apartment in the event of temporary relocation; the right to apply for a Section 8 mobility choice transfer voucher; and grievance rights and administrative termination of tenancy protections.

Both the Trust legislation and the PACT Program are ways in which NYCHA is trying to raise additional funds to address the repair needs of its public housing portfolio. For decades, Congress has not funded NYCHA public housing to levels it needs to keep pace with its repair and preservation needs.
